Rancho Santa Fe Women's Fund acknowledged by San Diego Ad Club for its contribution to Angels Foster Family Network Awareness Campaign.

RANCHO SANTA FE, CA, SEPTEMBER 27, 2011: For its upcoming advertising campaign designed to raise awareness about the need for viable foster families, San Diego-based Angels Foster Family Network has selected Inter/Media Advertising of Encino, Calif. The ad campaign is partially funded by a grant from the Rancho Santa Fe Women's Fund.

The recipients of the 2011 grant awards were determined by a general vote of the entire RSF Women's Fund membership. ANGELS FOSTER FAMILY NETWORK was among eight San Diego County non-profit organizations receiving grants totaling $284,930 announced at a luncheon in late May.

The Rancho Santa Fe Women's Fund, now comprised of approximately 133 members, began in November 2004 as a means for local women to join one another in meaningful, engaging ways while supporting the unmet needs of North San Diego County. Through their well-developed and comprehensive grant making model, the power of the Women's Fund members giving together has had a significant impact on the greater good throughout the community.

In the seven years since its inception, through informed, focused, and collective grant making, the Rancho Santa Fe Women's Fund, has given more than $1.6 Million to regional non-profit agencies.
